CLG NAMED AMONG BEST PLACES TO WORK IN WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 25, 2007 – CLG, the world’s largest behaviorally-based strategy execution and leadership development consultant, announced today that it was selected as one of the “Top 50 Places To Work in Western Pennsylvania” by the Pittsburgh Business Times, who released their list earlier this month. CLG ranked 42 among all companies and 32 among companies with less than 50 employees. The company—rated by its own workers—received a 91.48 employee satisfaction score.

Employees from each participating company in the list were surveyed online and rated their company on the following: team effectiveness, retention risk, alignment with goals, trust with co-workers, individual contribution, manager effectiveness, trust in senior leaders, feeling valued, work engagement and people practices.

Ned Morse, CEO of CLG, said, “We are extremely honored to be a part of the ‘Best Places to Work’ and very pleased to be in such fine company with other companies from the area. Since its founding in 1993, CLG has continually strived for excellence, not only in its work but in the way our employees are treated.”

CLG, headquartered in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania also maintains a strong presence in Morgantown, West Virginia where the company was originally founded and still employs nearly 30 percent of its workforce.

“The organization is virtually boundless, everyone feels an immediate connection to the bottom line and knows that what they do drives results,” a CLG employee wrote in their survey. “My personal supervisor is overly committed to making me successful and really goes the extra mile to demonstrate that she cares about me and my contribution.”

This is the latest in a variety of honors that CLG has received in 2007. CLG’s other awards have included recognition on the “50 Best Places to Work” list in the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, a ranking in “Pittsburgh’s 100 Fastest Growing Companies” in the Pittsburgh Business Times, and an honor in the prestigious Inc. 5000 list of “Fastest Growing Companies,” a comprehensive nationwide listing.
