CLG EXPANDS ITS NORTH AMERICAN PRESENCE WITH THE OPENING OF ITS TORONTO OFFICE

PITTSBURGH, June 13, 2011 – The Continuous Learning Group, Inc. \(CLG\), announced today the opening of a Canadian office in Toronto, Ontario. CLG's prestigious roster of Canada-based clients includes Canadian National Railway (CN) and others across diverse industries in mining, manufacturing, banking/financial, engineering, and construction. The office will be located in the TD Canada Trust Tower, in Toronto's financial district.

CLG has provided consulting services to companies throughout Canada for over a decade, and the company's Canadian-based consulting talent has grown rapidly. CLG's Toronto consultants offer unique expertise in behavioral science to assist companies with strategy execution, performance improvement, and leader-led change.

"Canada has long been a strong market for CLG. We've maintained a significant presence there, working with some of the country's highest-profile companies. Opening our Toronto office is a natural progression of CLG's commitment to the region," said Hilary Potts, President and CEO of CLG.

"The establishment of an office in Canada is an important enhancement to our core service offerings in North America," said Steve Jacobs, Chairman and Sr. Partner of CLG. "We are very pleased to reach this milestone and we look forward to our continued reach into the Canadian market."
